Auto Industry Shows Global Leadership on Working Conditions and Cascades Message to More than 13,500 Suppliers

Industry Issue

The diverse group of men and women who help produce automobiles are the industry’s most important resource. As an industry, we need to be committed to ensure that the individuals making our vehicles and components, or providing us with services, are afforded responsible working conditions and are treated with dignity and respect. Alignment on this position throughout the supply base is essential.

Unique Insight

The OEMs collaborated to provide global training to ensure that responsible working conditions are standard in the automotive industry. The AIAG-hosted training is designed, sponsored and funded by the automakers to help their suppliers meet local regulations — and customer expectations — for acceptable environmental and working conditions. It is a supplement to corporate responsibility commitments the automakers already have in place.

Participating Companies

Chrysler Group LLC
Daimler AG
Ford Motor Co.
General Motors Co.
Honda of America Manufacturing, Inc.
Toyota Motor Engineering & Manufacturing North America, Inc.

Results

This training is part of AIAG’s comprehensive corporate responsibility initiative and includes training sessions in Brazil, China, Mexico and Turkey. To date, there have been more than 900 participants and information has been cascaded to more than 13,500 suppliers.